

Alberto Ballestín, DVM, MSc

Researcher and lecturer at the Microsurgery Unit of CCMIJU/JUMISC (Cáceres, Spain).

Education:

Doctor of Veterinary Medicine (Extremadura University, Spain).

Research Master in Health Sciences (Extremadura University, Spain).

International PhD student stay (Columbia University Medical Center, New York, USA).

Teaching activities:

- Faculty/Teaching staff in 5 University Master Degree Programs.

- Lecturer on more than 50 surgical courses focused on the application of microsurgical techniques: Vascular and Nervous Microsurgery, Plastic & Reconstructive Surgery, Ophthalmology and Dentistry.

Supervision activities:

Tutor of Erasmus+ student.

Approved research projects:

- Researcher in 3 public funded research and development projects.

- Study Director in a private funded research study under Good Laboratory Practice regulations.

- Researcher in more than 7 private funded research and development projects.

Scientific Conferences:

Invited Keynote speaker in 7 national and international congresses.

30 communications in national and international scientific congresses.

Awards:

6 national and international awards in conferences: best paper prizes, best young researcher, outstanding oral presentation awards.

Patents:

Authorship of a patent registered in the Spanish Patent and Trademark Office (OEMP): P201400272.

Scientific Societies:

EFSM Research committee member (European Federation of Societies for Microsurgery).

Member of the Spanish Society of Microsurgery (AEM).

Member of the Spanish Society for Surgical Research (SEIQ).

Member of the International Microsurgical Simulation Society (IMSS).

Member of the Spanish Association of Minimally Invasive Veterinary Surgery(AEVMI).